

Making Restorative Practices and Healing Circles Work for You

Dr. Nathan A. Stephens

Special Thanks

Dr. Nathan A.

Born and Raised in Colum

Graduated - David H. Hi

Graduated from Columk with my Bachelor's of S

Graduated from Univers
'05 with my Master's in

Graduated from Mizzou

Discussion Guidelines

- Honor Confidentiality
- Know When to Step Forward &
- Interrogate Self & Systems
- Stay Present (Let's struggle & Learn)
- Accept That There May Be a Lack of Consensus
- Please Do Not Personalize the Disagreement
- It is Okay to Disagree But Let's Not Be Disagreeable.

Puritan Parenting

In the 1600s, children had low life expectancy rates. When these rates improved, children began to be viewed as society's future. Parents and others took a more vested interest in the moral and social development.

Puritan Parenting

Puritans arrived in the colonies with the belief that children were born with sin and needed intense discipline and obedience to please God. This influenced child rearing practices and parental responses to conduct that was anti-social or in violation of God's will.

Puritan Parenting

The Book of Nature urged parents to stomp out behaviors that are thought to be typical and even healthy today. Children could be chastised for behaviors as minor as fidgeting or pointing.

The axiom 'spare the rod, spoil the child' and paddling in schools were influenced by this mindset.

Early Laws

Parents were deemed responsible for their children's behavior and social control.

In 1646, the General Court of Massachusetts Bay, enacted The Stubborn Child Law, making a child's disobedience to their parents a capital offense.

History of Juvenile Services

In 1824, the New York Legislature passed a law authorizing the House of Refuge for youthful offenders, who were deemed still to be reformable.

- Philadelphia - opened one in 1828
- By the 1850s, eight more were open.

History of Juvenile Services

These facilities operated with 3 basic principles:

1. Segregating youth from adult offenders

2. The centrality of rehabilitation as the goal

3. Restriction of this system to children who were deemed amenable to treatment.

History of Juvenile Services

“These children were seen as needing not only kindly care with rehabilitative goals, but also stern discipline to remind them that laws had been broken.”

History of Juvenile Services

Charles Loring Brace

Rev. Brace had witnessed the hordes of children in New York City who lived in poverty with parents who abused alcohol, engaged in criminal activity and otherwise demonstrated they were unfit parents. Parents sent children to beg for money or sell newspapers in the streets.

There were other children who were homeless and unemployed, wandering the street.

These children became notorious as “street Arabs” or “the dangerous classes” due to the street violence and gangs with which they inevitably became members.

History of Juvenile Services

Rev. Brace provided services for poor and homeless children, working women, needy families and disabled children at a time when services for these groups were few and far between.

His first efforts included lodging houses for the thousands of homeless newsboys, as well as industrial schools, and a farm school.

ORPHAN TRAINS

Separate Youth Services

First, it is important to remember that Black children were still enslaved in the Southern states until 1865.

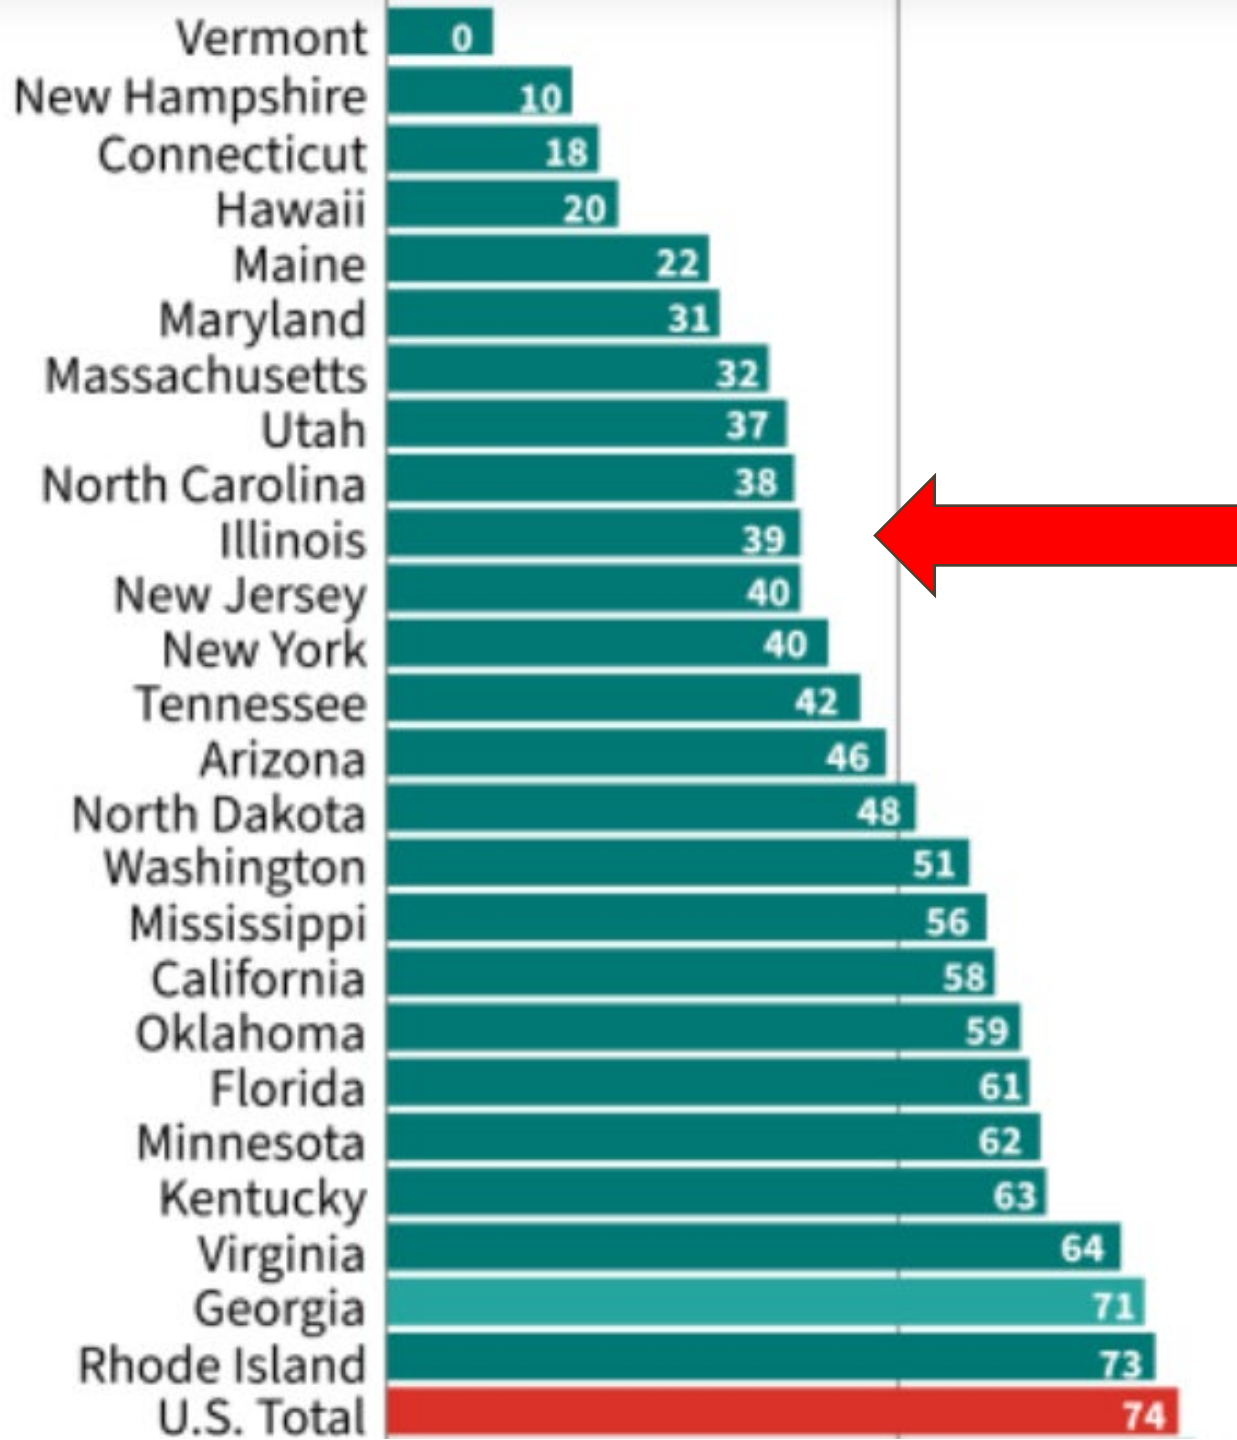

Black children in many places in the northern states were not allowed into segregated spaces with White children including the House of Refuge.

Separate Youth Services

Source: United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime. 2011.

Source:
<https://www.sentencingproject.org/policy-brief/youth-justice-by-the-numbers/>

What are Restorative Practices?

Restorative Practices are...

primarily about healing harm and the re-establishment of individuals, groups, communities, and contexts.

re·store

/rəˈstôr/verb

bring back (a previous right, practice, custom, or situation); reinstate.
"the policy restored confidence in the banking system"

- return (someone or something) to a former condition, place, or position.
"the effort to restore him to office isn't working"

My Introduction to Restorative Practices

If I had been the Juvenile Officer...

I would have required me to go back to the store, apologize to that specific clerk, pay the $.03, apologize to the police officer, apologize to my mother.

The apologies ideally would have occurred in a literal circle.

Why a circle?

In many Native American and Indigenous African cultures, circles generally symbolize unity, community, interconnectedness, and the cycle of life, spirituality, representing the idea of wholeness and eternity due to their continuous nature, with no beginning or end; essentially signifying the interconnectedness of all things within a community, including the natural world and the metaphysical.

The 5 Principles of RESTORATIVE PRACTICES

RELATIONSHIPS

Developing connections

RESPECT

Valuing the opinion
of others

RESPONSIBILITY

Being accountable for actions towards self,
others and environment

REPAIR

Repairing harm and remaining included

REINTEGRATION

Consistent invitation
to be in community

The Case of Clarke

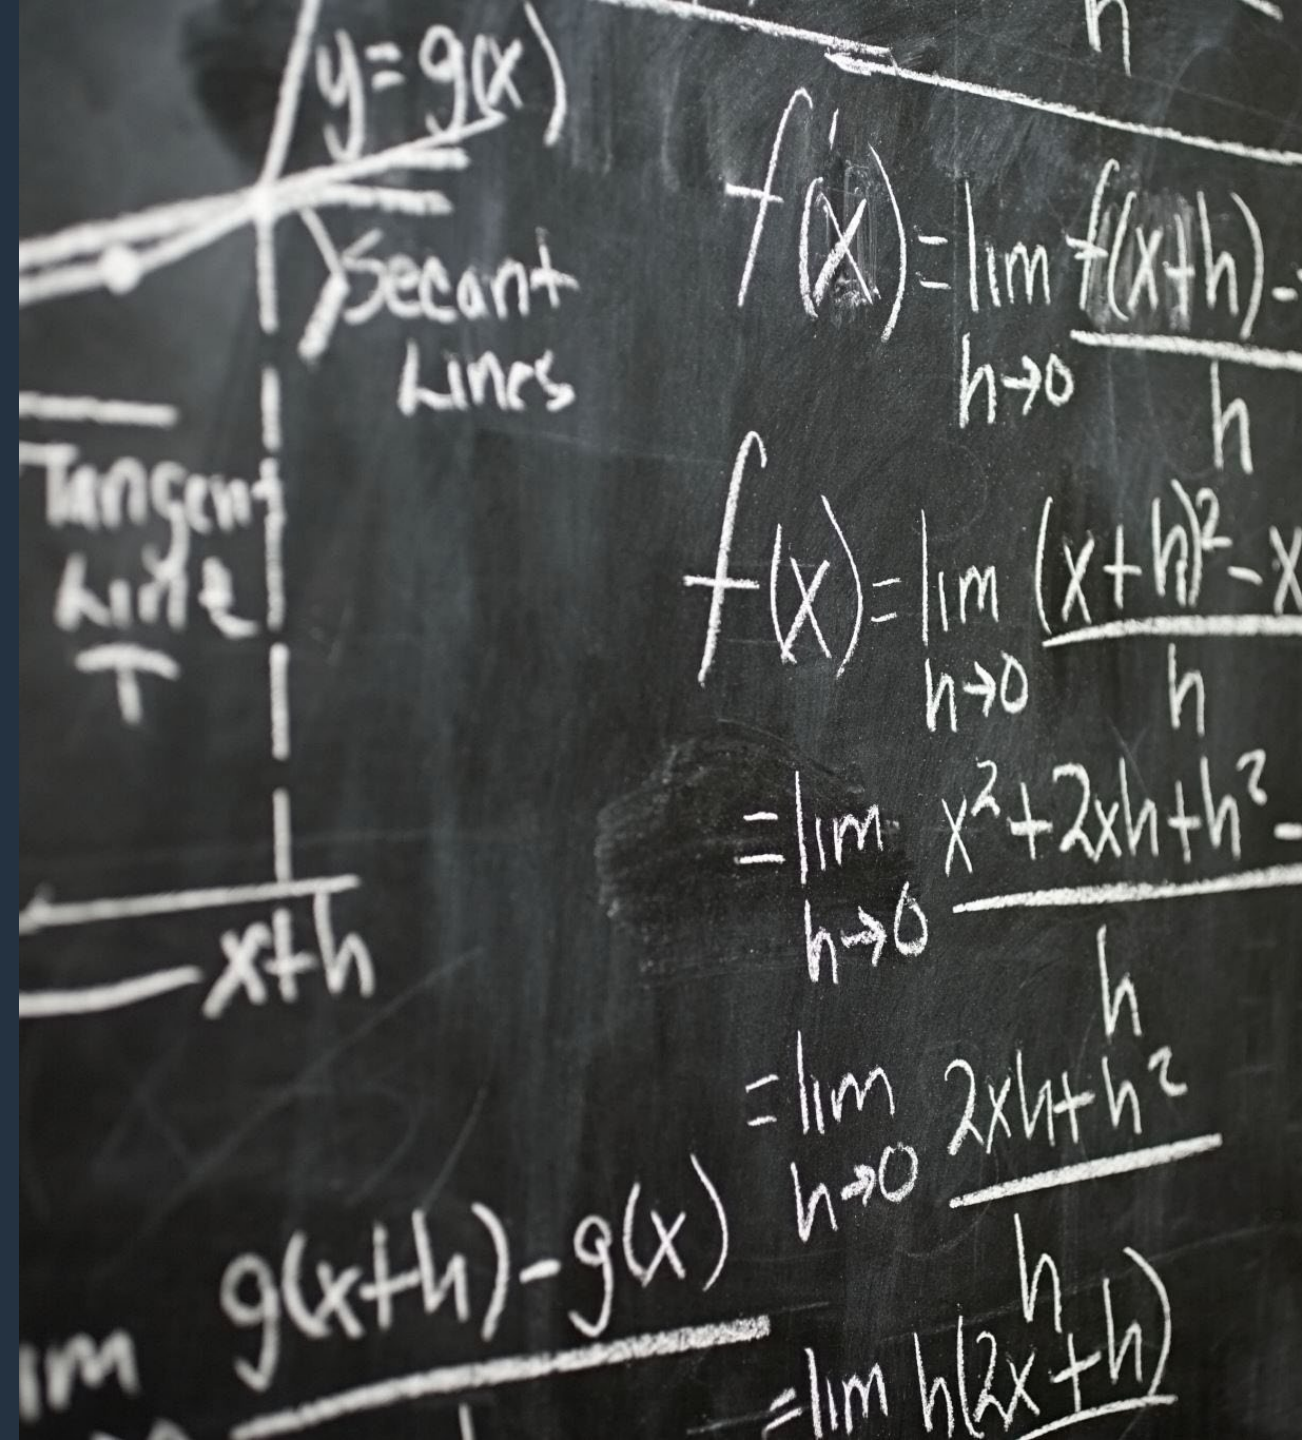

No one is advocating for allowing weapons or disrespect to teachers, parents, or adults. But where is the learning?

If a student doesn't know how to read, we teach that student how to read.

If a student doesn't know how to do math problems, we teach that student how to do math.

If a student doesn't know how to behave, we punish that student?!?!

2 MU students arrested in cotton ball incident

BY MISSOURIAN STAFF Mar 3, 2010 Updated Jun 12, 2015

Sean Fitzgerald, Zachary Tucker mug shots

The 5 Principles of RESTORATIVE PRACTICES

RELATIONSHIPS

Developing connections

RESPECT

Valuing the opinion
of others

RESPONSIBILITY

Being accountable for
actions towards self,
others and environment

REPAIR

Repairing harm and
remaining included

REINTEGRATION

Consistent invitation
to be in community

The Dilemma: Mr. Tony Hall vs Student

What would you do?

How Restorative
Am I?

The Dilemma: w/ Mr. Hall

Revisited

Logic Model & Systems that Can Impede Restorative Practices

Common System Barriers

- A culture of compliance
- Implicit and explicit bias and incongruent beliefs
- Overreliance on structural changes
- Silos or Departments working in isolation

Common System Barriers

- Not regularly looking at disaggregated data and addressing challenges
- Lack of systemwide organization around identified approach or strategy for restorative practices
- Focusing on one aspect and not examining the system as a whole

THE ICEBERG

A Tool for Guiding Systemic Thinking

EVENTS

What just happened?

Practices

PATTERNS/TRENDS

What trends have there been over time?

Procedures

UNDERLYING STRUCTURES

*What has influenced the patterns?
What are the relationships between the parts?*

Policies

MENTAL MODELS

What assumptions, beliefs and values do people hold about the system? What beliefs keep the system in place?

Beliefs

Restorative Culture

Informs the language that we use to build agency and identity. We strive to create environments that allows young people to pursue their goals and aspirations.

We attend to the ways that we build staff credibility, set high expectations, and foster positive relationships.

Restorative Conversations

Equip adults and youth with the capacity to resolve problems, make decisions, and arrive at solutions in ways that are satisfactory and growth producing for all.

This requires mental reframing to deepen understanding of perspectives, using affective statements, and impromptu conversations.

Eliminate Ageism/Adultism (e.g., "a child should stay in a child's place.")

Restorative/Healing Circles

These are tools for prompting learning and growth through dialogue, building/rebuilding community, and reaching resolution through accountability and healing.

Accountability is different than punishment!

Restorative Conferences

More formal meetings meant to foster guided dialogue, healing, and possible closure between those who have been harmed and the perpetrator(s) of harm.

These include plans for the re-entry into the community and involves other adults, youth, and stakeholders impacted by the incident(s).

Questions???

Contact Info

Dr. Nathan Stephens

nstephens71@gmail.com

(217) 530-8123

References

- Schultz, J. L. (1973, October). The Cycle of Juvenile Court History. Crime and Delinquency.
- Platt, A. (1969, January). The Rise of the Child-Saving Movement: A student in social policy and correctional reform. The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, 381, 21-38. <https://www.jstor.org/stable/1038229>
- Bell, J. (n.d.) Repairing the Breach: A brief history of youth of color in the justice system. W. Haywood Burns Institute for Youth Justice Fairness and Equity.
- Fox, S. J. (1996). The Early History of the Court. The Future of Children, The Juvenile Court, 6(3), 29-39. <https://www.jstor.org/stable/1602591>
- Smith, D., Fisher, D. & Frey, N. (2022). The Restorative Practices Playbook: Tools for transforming discipline in schools. Corwin, Fisher, & Frey.